week begins the push for new. Set up tables for all interested in participating in parties are located in the Center and west patio, Center, and at the south side of the Library.

ent Parnanny activity is for Nov. 8, and will involve about 500 students. Twenty parties will be held simultaneously that evening—a pizza party, ice-cream social, old-fashioned hootenanny, and others.

Students will sign up for the party they prefer. Then, cards will be drawn by a random process and those chosen will be notified of time and place by pre-selected party hosts.

Jim Chaplin, ASBYU social vice-president, describes the program as "the most exciting program ever introduced to a college campus."

"It's not a place where students are lined up for dates, but it's a chance to enlarge your circle of friends," Chaplin explains. "The Parnanny program operates with the philosophy that each of us can take the time to be friends to each other."

The ultimate goal of the program is to involve some 9,000 students. Party groups, however, will not exceed 20 people, with a proportioned amount of guys and gals, in upper and lower classes.

Each event will be held at an off-campus location, and needed transportation will be provided.

Parnanny, which derived its name from combining "party" and "hootenanny," is not an original idea of the Social Office. The plan found its beginnings last year in a similar program called "Mix," sponsored by BYU Fourth Stake.

Experimental Parnanny activities were held on a limited basis during recent summer school sessions.

"Great way to meet prospective dates," "Worth attending" were typical reactions.

Vickie Adams, a freshman from Orem, expresses a consensus of past Parnanny participants, "Parnannies are just plain fun, not complicated or sophisticated, just fun."

Candidates Give Views

November 5 moves ever closer and the candidates seem to be getting more and more anxious to get into office.

There are, however, many in the country who have not yet made up their minds concerning the election. A comparison of the three major candidates is helpful to people in this predicament.

See page 3 for an in-depth interview with the three leading presidential candidates.

Student Execs Rap Liquor Proposition

by Judy Geisler
Student Government Editor

The ASBYU Executive Council has taken a stand against liquor by the drink.

In a statement delivered yesterday by Paul C. Genbo, administrative assistant to ASBYU President Grant Richards, the council unanimously denounced Liquor Petition A, which would authorize the sale of liquor by the drink.

Further, the statement encouraged all eligible students to register and vote against the bill.

"Our opposition to the petition is based on both legal and moral grounds," the statement read in part.

NEW PROBLEMS

"Legally, the petition is a poor piece of legislation, adding a new set of problems without seeking to correct those difficulties arising under existing liquor laws. Morally, we stand behind the Prophet in his call for the bill's defeat.

"We encourage all students to unite in opposition to the petition. All eligible students are encouraged to register and vote against the bill on Nov. 5," the release concluded.

All twelve council members signed the statement. The signers were Richards; Genbo, executive assistants Brian Walton, Weldon Larsen and George Rust; executive secretary Jeff Cain; and vice presidents Todd Christensen (Academics), Don Wood (Athletics), Kim Cameron (Culture), Jim Hepworth (Finance), Jim Chaplin (Social) and Darrell Jones (Student Relations).

Genbo, a leader of the student opposition to the petition, was wary of the election's outcome.

"I want to emphasize the importance of registering every eligible student. This issue will be decided by very few votes, perhaps as few as 10. BYU students can very easily cast the few decisive votes in this vital issue," he said.

REGISTER EASILY

"Due to a ruling this past weekend by the Attorney General, it's much easier for an out-of-state student to register," Genbo continued. "A student has to meet the age and length of residence requirements, of course, but the intention-of-residence requirement isn't as strict."

"Before this weekend, students had to be sure they intended to reside in Utah after graduation," he explained. "If a student has reasonable cause to believe he will reside here after graduation, and has registered his car here and has a valid Utah driver's license, he qualified to vote under the new ruling.

"I cannot overemphasize the importance of every eligible student registering and voting," Genbo concluded. "This could be the most important issue of the century as far as this state is concerned."

Simpson To Talk Today

Bishop Robert L. Simpson, first counselor in the Presiding Bishopric of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, will speak at BYU's Devotional assembly today at 10 a.m. in the Smith Fieldhouse.

Known for his concern and love for the youth of The Church, Bishop Simpson was called to the Presiding Bishopric at the October, 1961 General Conference. In his position he is concerned with the temporal affairs, for youth and all the membership of the Church.

Bishop Simpson has been president of the Church's New Zealand Mission (1958-61) where he had served previously as a missionary before World War II.

He also has served in a ward bishopric, on a stake high council, as a stake mission president, a seminary instructor and was the servicemen's coordinator for the Church in North Africa and the Middle East during his military service in 1943-45.

During World War II Bishop Simpson completed his formal education at Yale University as member of the Air Force. He served as a captain in Egypt, Turkey, Iran and Arabia and, during off hours, did special work for both the government and the Church with the New Zealand Mount Battalion stationed in Cairo, Egypt.

In business, Bishop Simpson was with the Pacific Telephone Company for more than 20 years, being successively a plant engineer, public relations supervisor and head of an accounting office.

Issue By Issue

Note: The following is the series of campaign answers to our day by the candidates for the Associated Press in separate columns. This series will continue as R-E space permits until 6:30 p.m.

CRK (AP)-Associated Press conducted in-depth interviews with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic vice president; Richard M. Nixon, the Republican vice president; and George C. Wallace, the Independent party, to elicit their views on the major issues in presidential election.

of the questions, each of these men dealt with domestic and foreign issues, and the results were the same.

the gist of their answers:

ORGANIZED CRIME

and order has been described of the main issues of this crime. We would like to clarify this law and order and breaking it specific problems. First, how can we combat the growth of crime which has steadily despite the efforts of the FBI law enforcement agencies?

ing organized crime requires, first, intensive cooperation federal, state and local. Organized crime has many funding counterfeiting, which is a constitutional responsibility federal government. The problem is related to crime. These are other forms of racketeering that come category of organized crime fall under federal law.

federal government needs to and has done so, but needs one of it—to strengthen its attorney's offices with personnel.

the law and order is a national and yet it is under local control. It is my view that here legitimate area for substantial assistance in funds, in law enforcement, in technical equipment, in technical ed more assistance for local law enforcement. The benefits of the technology in areas such as law enforcement, data processing, federal state and university for police training; licensing of firearms; assistance in expanding the number of personnel and in reducing the number of cases; federal aid to law enforcement institutions to expand the training personnel to help law enforcement officers.

use the wiretapping power has been given to the Justice Department by the Congress and which is general has refused to use wiretapping power that has been given to that provision.

ing about wiretapping is device I would prefer not to use in any law society, but we realize that the police forces use electronic devices are at least be equal with the law.

I enlist what I think is the most not only in the case of the law in the case of many of the problems that plague our society. And the tremendous power that the volunteer agencies around the country. For example, the National Council of Commerce is taking action for the next year to respect for law in their education in the schools and public meetings.

en get the 40 million people who are members of volunteer organizations... involved in a national crusade of education for respect for law. I think that will get at the other end of the problem."

WALLACE

"I think the Justice Department ought to be more violent and I think the President ought to speak out on the matter of organized crime. I think he ought to lead the moral support of the country to the local law enforcement officials in the combating of organized crime."

"I don't think we need any additional laws. We need a common sense interpretation of existing laws. We need some common sense application of rules of jurisprudence involved in confession, involving obtaining evidence so that each time you arrest and convict someone for a crime they won't be turned loose because of the Supreme Court rule that the confession was taken, for instance, without a lawyer present."

"The different decisions of the court have handicapped the police and law enforcement officials throughout the country in their fight against organized crime and also crime in the streets. It is almost impossible to convict anybody of any crime now, from the highest to the lowest."

"We see people in high places with their permissiveness on the matter of crime in the street, the matter of respect for the law, my view and I think this encourages and helps to bring about the commission of petty crime..."

Air Force Equipment Junked

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government investigators have reported that during one six-month period, the Air Force junked about $6.7 million worth of damaged equipment, most of which would have been economically repaired and used again.

The General Accounting Office, the auditing arm of Congress, made the study at five Air Force bases and reported that three of every four pieces of equipment scrapped could have been repaired for amounts significantly less than the cost of new equipment.

The five bases involved were Scott Air Force Base in Illinois, Perrin and Randolph bases in Texas, Nellis Air Force and Mountain Home in Idaho. Nevada and Mountain Home in Idaho. Air Force regulations permit base personnel to scrap equipment if it is beyond repair, if repair costs would exceed 65 per cent of the cost of new equipment or if condemnation is specified by applicable technical orders.

GAO auditors said they believe that a substantial portion of the $6.7 million in equipment had been scrapped during six months in 1967 because base personnel believed that the repair costs would be excessive.

However, GAO had technicians at three repair depots check 78 condemned items and found that 51 of them could have been repaired at substantially less than replacement costs would cost.

"Our review showed that the primary reason for improper condemnation of economically repairable items was that maintenance personnel at the bases did not have adequate knowledge of depot repair costs, procedures and capabilities upon which to base their determinations," the GAO report said.

Among the items tested at GAO's request was an actuator, valued at $644, which was condemned at Nellis

Air Force Base on the basis that repair costs, GAO said, would have been 964 or 9.9 per cent of the replacement cost.

At Mountain Home Air Force Base, GAO found a filter element valued at $200.90 also condemned on the basis of excessive repair costs. Actual repair costs, GAO said, were $5.25 or 3 per cent of a new unit.

"Although our tests indicated that the reason most often advanced by the bases for condemning such items was that the estimated repair costs would exceed 65 per cent of the cost of a new item, we did not find a single instance in which base personnel had documented as estimate of repair cost and compared it with acquisition cost," GAO said.

Hugh E. Will, Air Force deputy for supply and maintenance, in a letter to GAO, agreed with the findings that significant savings could be realized by revising regulations but insisted that the cost criterion must be retained.

Missionaries

Die In Crash

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Two Mormon missionaries were killed Saturday in a collision on Interstate 4. The highway patrol said a third car piled into the wreckage and the car occupied by the Mormon women burst into flames.

The missionaries were identified as Martha Beckstead, 66, Mesa, Ariz., and Cella Meacham, 59, Ogden, Utah.

Pieces of religious literature were found in the car, troops said.

Identification was held up for several hours.

"There was no chance for anyone to try to get the dead persons out of the car," said Trooper S. L. Brown.

It's The Utes Saturday

By Roger Gillespie

Fall traditionally means football, but this year it has also meant frustration. BYU grid fans are still pinching themselves over the heart-breaking loss to Texas-EI Paso last Saturday. But here is little time to look back as the Utes face another tough test this weekend when they face the Utah Redskins in Salt Lake City. There are still tickets available for the 1:30 p.m. tilt.

Cougar pigskin hopes received another jolt over the weekend as the freshmen took it on the chin, ending up on the short end of a 20-2 score to the Utah State Rams.

The only two points the Kittens were able to muster came with less than two minutes left when Kitten like Zimmerman kicked Gerald Bills in the end zone for a safety.

The Kittens, who presently own an 8-2 record at the midpoint of the season, were held to minus four yards rushing by the stout Rambler defense. Rambler quarterback John Stoyeda named the Kittens in the first period, versus 77 yards to teammate Bob Wicks for a TD. The two Apple seedings were also teammates in High School in Corvina, Calif.

In the final period, Wicks put the same out of the Kittens' reach by using back a punt 60 yards for the touchdown. Quarterback Stoyeda, who completed 12 of 17 passes for 231 yards, hit Steve Ison on a 10-yarder for the other Utah State tally.

The Kittens will be out to break the losing habit Saturday when they meet Ricks College on the Vikings' home

Y Booters
Trounce
Utah StateBy Jim Hunt
Universe Sportswriter

In the highest scoring weekend in BYU soccer history, the two Y teams overhauled the two Utah State squads Saturday. BYU "B" whipped USU "B" 7-1, and the "A" team dumped USU "A" 9-2.

Robin Egan scored four goals in leading the "B" team to its easiest win ever. Stan McBride added 2, and Don Beyer got 1.

BYU "A" now 4-0, was led by Horst Mastag's three goals. Mustang now has five for the season.

Lynn Jacobs and Steve Yeager each scored twice and Bill Forrest and Steve Camargo got one apiece. Camargo now leads the league in scoring with 12 goals.

USU "A" goals were scored by Woolly Chertrudhakas and Mohammed Nourmash, but they were not nearly enough against a BYU squad that has scored 31 goals in 4 games.

Only BYU "B" has held BYU "A" to less than 8 goals in a league game this season.

This weekend, the "A" team has a bye. BYU "B" will travel to Logan to face Utah State "A."

Winners in the Game of Arms-sponsored "Big Buck" contest will be decided tomorrow. All those who registered before the deer hunt are eligible. Those entering should bring their racks to the Wilkinson Center Games Area between the hours of 4 and 7 p.m. Wednesday.

A special table will be set up and racks will be measured by a member of the ASBYU games committee. The winner will receive a free evening for two in the Wilkinson Center Games Area.

Participants should claim entries before bringing them to the Wilkinson Center, according to games area personnel.

Cat Harriers Fall

By Bob Hudson
Universe Sportswriter

Last Saturday morning, the BYU cross-country team fell to WAC title hopeful Texas-EI Paso on the wind-swept Timpangos Golf Course in Provo by a 24-32 count.

Couch Sherold James stated after the meet that, "this was our best effort yet. We should be ready to fight for the retention of our title by the time the conference meet rolls around."

Although the Miners won the meet, several of the Cougar harriers should be lauded for their sterling performance.

Once again Greg Keatone was the individual for the Cats. He battle his spot, as did all the others, for the four-mile race. At the end of the race, he was on his feet and finished a strong behind El Pauco McKillip and Pat the world indoor two-mile champion.

This weekend the Cougars ran Pocatello, Ida. for a triangular against Montana State and Idaho.

Y Library To Undergo Scrutiny

Dr. Robert B. Downs, dean of library administration at the University of Illinois, will be evaluating the J. Reuben Clark, Jr. Library this week. Dr. Downs will be on the BYU campus all week to conduct a thorough, objective survey and evaluation of the library resources and services, according to Library Director, Donald K. Nelson.

It is hoped that through this evaluation, the university will be able to obtain an accurate picture of the library teaching and research needs, and strengths and weaknesses of the library resources," Nelson said.

Nelson said he believes that the information obtained from a review and analysis of the evaluation will be invaluable in planning an effective, well-balanced program for the future development of the Clark Library collections and services.

Dr. Downs is an expert in research library resources. He has filled the position of library director at the University of North Carolina, New York University, and has served as head of the University of Illinois Library and Library School since 1943. He has also surveyed and evaluated the libraries of Purdue University, the University of Missouri, the University of Utah, and many others.

The Clark Library now contains over three quarters of a million volumes and 100,000 microfilm items. It serves a student body of 22,000 students, and over 2,000 university faculty and staff, church leaders, and countless alumni and community scholars.

University Purpose Stressed

Elder LeGrand Richards of the Council of the Twelve of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints was the featured speaker at the Homecoming-Founder's Day Convocation Friday.

In his address, Elder Richards stated, "BYU is great because it is good; but if BYU ever ceases to be good, it will cease to be great." He stressed the importance of educating children in order that they will be men and women capable of coping with the world intelligently.

He praised the vision of President Brigham Young who, in instructing the teachers of BY Academy, admonished them to teach with the Holy Spirit in all things. Elder Richards pointed out that the building of this university is spiritual and that we are here to improve our character both academically and spiritually.

Elder Richards paid tribute to President Wilkinson, under whose dedicated service BYU's staff and student body has grown and improved. He emphasized the importance of instilling a faith in God in the hearts of the young so that they will radiate the spirit of BYU after they have graduated and left BYU as many former BYU students such as: James Fleisher, president of the University of Utah; O. Leslie Stone, president of the Salt Lake Temple; and Philo Farnsworth, the father of television.

Also, Elder Richards stressed that the students, not just the alumni, bring honor to the school. Students who have come into our midst are welcomed and made to feel the spirit that dwells here.

He pointed out some compliments that have been paid to the student body by national figures, such as Paul Harvey, who have visited our campus.

"It is the action of the students that causes compliments," Elder Richards said. "complements like that paid to BYU by Ray and Nellie Reeves, who recently donated 1,000 acres of land to BYU."

Elder Richards summarized by saying, "May this university continue to be good, that it may continue to be great. In memory of the thousands whose lives have been touched and to the thousands of youth whose lives are yet to be touched, may we pledge to support this university."
